THE CONCEPT

Three pods on the lake, one address on I-Drive

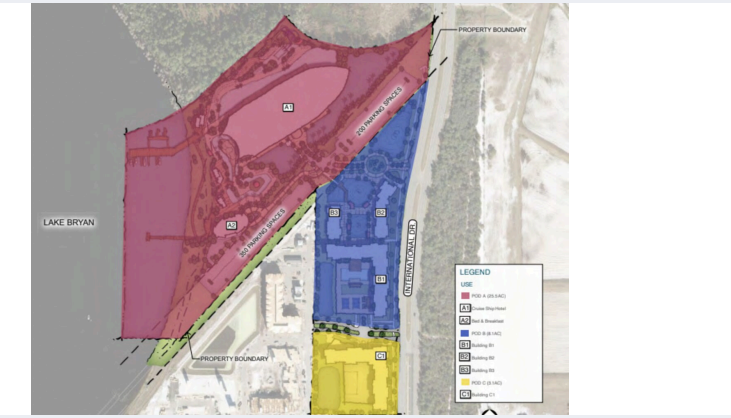

36.7 acres arranged as a hotel and resort pod on the water, and two mixed-use pods stepping down to International Drive.

Pod A occupies the lake frontage with a cruise-ship-form hotel and a separate hotel tower, together with surface and structured parking. Pods B and C sit to the east along International Drive, each carrying residential floors above a ground floor of commercial space.

- Pod A — hotel and resort, 25.5 acres, 795 hotel rooms
- Pod B — mixed use, 8.1 acres, 640 residential units over 27,500 SF commercial
- Pod C — mixed use, 3.1 acres, 400 residential units over commercial
- 1,835 hotel rooms and dwelling units in total, at 50 per acre
- 37,500 SF of commercial across Pods B and C
- 3,128 parking spaces required; 4.2 acres of stormwater

TOTALS

What the summary does and does not reconcile

The development summary totals are reproduced below as published. Three points in the source do not agree with one another and are flagged rather than reconciled.

The cover page states 1,402 multifamily units and 92 build-to-rent townhouse units, while the development summary shows 1,040 residential units across Pods B and C and no townhouse component. The pod acreages sum to 36.8 against a stated total of 36.7. The site legend labels A2 as a bed and breakfast while the summary table calls it a hotel tower. Each should be confirmed against the current planning set before the figures are relied upon.

LOCATION

Lake Bryan and International Drive

The site fronts Lake Bryan to the west and International Drive to the east, within the Orlando attractions corridor.

The surrounding market is defined by the resorts and attractions identified in the source as area competitors: the Hyatt Regency Grand Cypress Resort, Volcano Bay, ICON Park and CityWalk.

The masterplan places the resort pod on the water with 350 parking spaces along its southern edge and 200 along the International Drive frontage, with the mixed-use pods addressing the drive itself.
